INVESTMENT MANAGERS' COMMENTARY

The Stork DMS fund performed well for the first month of the second half of the year. Investor sentiment remained positive in July following the release of numerous economic data and central bank communications. As expected, the European Central Bank raised rates by 25 basis points at its 27 July meeting. While the institution did not commit to future actions, ECB President Christine Lagarde was less restrictive than usual. The latter follows the publication of July's PMI indices, which showed a sharper-than-expected annual slowdown and a contraction in activity for the second month running. The Federal Reserve also raised its main policy rate by 25 basis points to 5.50%, in line with market expectations. Fed Chairman J. Powell said the September decision would be guided by data releases. Markets are expecting this latest hike to be the culmination of monetary tightening, given the surprise declines in headline and core inflation figures. This optimism has once again driven a boost in equity indices, with the Euro Stoxx 50 gaining 1.64% over the month and the S&P 500 up 3.11%. Regarding European and American credit indices, the Investment Grade indices tightened by 6 and 3 basis points and the High Yield indices by 20 and 21 points. Against this backdrop, there was a positive trend across the board. The general tightening of credit spreads benefitted securitisation activities, supported by favourable fundamentals. Indeed, demand for securitised assets remains even stronger than supply, which remained contained this month over the summer period. However, a few public transactions were issued on the primary market and we participated in the issuance of the German RAGER 2021-1 A auto-loan, for which the originator is CreditPlus Bank (a subsidiary that is fully owned by Crédit Agricole Consumer Finance). At the same time, the Credit sub-fund yielded positive results thanks to the positive trend of the bond market, favoring the performance of basis trade arbitrage strategies and carry positions. Bank papers, and in particular yankees (European issuers whose issues are denominated in USD), stood out, such as Santander 06/24 or BBVA 09/25. The Fixed Income sub-fund followed the same trend, with good asset swap performance, reflecting investors' better perception of issuers' credit quality. There have therefore been profit gains, such as from Austria 10/53 or European Union 10/52. For predominantly equity-based activities, the M&A sub-fund kept up the same momentum from last month, amid important developments with several major deals. The Black Night and Intercontinental Exchange groups have notably taken an important step in their $14.1-billion merger by entering into an agreement to sell the Optimal Blue company owned by the target company. The sale was well received, as it simplifies the merger and addresses anti-trust concerns raised by the Federal Trade Commission (FTC). Finally, the Convertible sub-fund, which also benefitted from this tailwind, recorded a new positive performance this month. All positions delivered good results, including the CoCos portfolio, which continues to rebound. It is also worth stating that German property has performed well, is in better health and has recorded more favourable prospects, benefitting from our convertible bonds Tag Immo 06/26 and Leg Immo 06/28. It should be noted that the new Credit Opportunities sub-fund is continuing to make a positive contribution to overall performance, driven by the favourable trend of the strategies in place.
