INVESTMENT OBJECTIVES

The sub-fund's objective is to generate regular returns not correlated with the main market trends, in a context of risk controls. The choice of the assets is guided by an arbitration of mergers and/or acquisitions, consisting in benefiting from the price differences, which can appear at the time of takeover bids or exchange. Based on a solid and detailed analysis of the economic, legal and competitive frameworks, initiated operations are mainly held until the finalization of the offer. The portfolio only focuses on declared M&A situations. Initiated strategies consist in acquiring shares of the target company (cash offer) and selling shares of the acquirer (stock, cash and stock offer) or conversely if we expect the bid to fail. The sub-fund may also develop strategies on corporate action arbitrage such as preferential subscription rights.

INVESTMENT MANAGERS' COMMENTARY

The summer period started out quiet in terms of new operations. The main announcements, which were made official over the last few days of July, related to American target companies for more than $6 billion. Investment opportunities have therefore emerged for Reata Pharmaceuticals, following the offer made by Biogen, and for New Relic, a specialist in web analysis and monitoring, as part of its privatisation plan launched by a consortium made up of Fransisco Partners Management and TPG.

July was a good month for data and our portfolio was able to benefit from important developments with several major holdings. First of all, the Black Night and Intercontinental Exchange groups have taken an important step in their $14.1-billion merger by entering into an agreement to sell the Optimal Blue company owned by the target company. This sale simplifies the merger, as it is the second sale made by Black Night to address anti-trust concerns raised by the FTC. Although it quickly narrowed, the spread is still wide enough to maintain the position, pending future discussions between the entities and the decision-making body. In addition, as one of the largest holdings by size, the takeover of the giant VMware by Broadcom, for more than $70 billion, obtained, within a 7-day window, provisional approval from the European Union and then from the British regulatory authority, the UK CMA. In order to do so, Broadcom has proposed interoperability solutions to certain competitors, and must now defend its operation with the FTC, as part of the second phase of the study. Finally, while a California judge authorised Microsoft to conclude its acquisition of Activision Blizzard, by overruling the FTC's argument, the giants decided to extend their merger contract by three months so that they could once again defend their merger with the CMA. While Microsoft had appealed the English regulator's initial decision to block the merger, the latter suggested that a restructured deal could address its concerns, subject to further study.

Portfolio leverage remained relatively stable in July. The closures of the Iveric Bio and VectivBio Holdings operations, but especially of several operations in the small cap segment, have been replaced by strategies relating to Reata Pharmaceuticals and New Relic, cited in the introduction, and to the British legal services provider, DWF Group.
