INVESTMENT OBJECTIVES

The sub-fund's objective is to generate regular returns not correlated with the main market trends, in a context of risk controls. The choice of the assets is guided by an arbitration of mergers and/or acquisitions, consisting in benefiting from the price differences, which can appear at the time of takeover bids or exchange. Based on a solid and detailed analysis of the economic, legal and competitive frameworks, initiated operations are mainly held until the finalization of the offer. The portfolio only focuses on declared M&A situations. Initiated strategies consist in acquiring shares of the target company (cash offer) and selling shares of the acquirer (stock, cash and stock offer) or conversely if we expect the bid to fail. The sub-fund may also develop strategies on corporate action arbitrage such as preferential subscription rights.

INVESTMENT MANAGERS' COMMENTARY

June was marked by a divergence in performance between U.S. and European equity markets. However, the volatility observed in the United States did not dampen corporate appetite for strategic acquisitions. The U.S. healthcare sector emerged as the main driver of M&A activity during the month, with the announced transactions involving Bio-Techne, Apogee Therapeutics, and Nuvalent, each valued at over $10 billion. In Europe, Italy's banking sector—still more fragmented than those of its European peers—continued its consolidation trend with the announcement of Intesa Sanpaolo's acquisition of Banca Monte dei Paschi di Siena for €35.5 billion.

The portfolio ended the month broadly flat, against the backdrop of a challenging market environment in which no clear directional trend emerged across our investment universe. While a significant number of transactions reached completion ahead of the end of the first half, several situations experienced heightened volatility. The main positive contributor was the acquisition of ProAssurance by The Doctors Company. Following approval of the transaction by the California Department of Insurance, shareholders of the target company received the agreed consideration of $25.00 per share. The spread, which still stood at 1.5% on the day the stock was delisted, reflected market uncertainty regarding the transaction's completion timeline, particularly given the long-stop date set for the end of September, which some investors viewed as unfavourable. In addition, the completion of Eli Lilly's acquisition of Centessa Pharmaceuticals enabled us to increase our exposure on attractive terms in the final stages of the transaction. This strategy also allows us to benefit from the optionality embedded in the Contingent Value Right (CVR), a contractual right that may generate additional value if the clinical and regulatory milestones defined at signing are achieved. Conversely, the spread on Allied Gold continued to widen. Although no transaction-specific risks have emerged, the geopolitical environment in Mali remains a source of uncertainty. Nevertheless, we believe the stock's weakness during June was primarily driven by movements in the gold price rather than by any deterioration in deal fundamentals. Against this backdrop, we chose to maintain our position unchanged. Pending a renewal of our investment universe following the completion of numerous large transactions, we maintained a cautious stance. Our main investments during the month were concentrated in the transactions mentioned above, as well as in several European and Scandinavian small-cap deals, notably Nagarro and Humana/Ambea.
